SAT PREPARATION FAQs

FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

Your questions answered. Your future supported.

1

Who should take the SAT?

The SAT is recommended for students who plan to apply to universities in the United States and many institutions around the world. A strong SAT score can strengthen your university application and improve scholarship opportunities.

2

When should I begin preparing?

Most students achieve their best results by preparing 2–4 months before their target exam. Starting early provides more time to build skills, practice consistently, and improve confidence.

3

How long is the Copperstone SAT Preparation course?

Each course runs for nine weeks and includes a Personal Study Week during Week 5, allowing students to review concepts and complete independent practice before continuing with live instruction.

4

Can I join if I've never taken the SAT before?

Absolutely. Our courses are designed for both first-time test takers and students who wish to improve a previous score. We begin with a diagnostic assessment to identify your strengths and areas for improvement.

5

What is included in the course?

Students receive live instruction, comprehensive lesson materials, homework assignments, official-style practice questions, full-length practice tests, performance feedback, and support from experienced SAT specialists.

6

What score improvement can I expect?

Every student is different, but those who attend classes regularly, complete assignments, and practice consistently often see significant score improvements over the duration of the course.

7

Can I take the course from anywhere?

Yes. All classes are delivered live online, making it easy for students across the Middle East, Africa, and around the world to participate from home.

8

How do I register?

Visit www.copperstone-ed.com or contact the Copperstone Admissions Team to enroll in the next available monthly cohort. New weekday and weekend courses begin during the first week of every month.

DID YOU KNOW?

More than 4,000 universities worldwide accept SAT scores as part of the admissions process, including many institutions outside the United States. A strong SAT score can also strengthen scholarship applications and demonstrate college readiness.

I had given up on my college of choice because I believed I was a poor test taker. Ms. Maneeza taught me strategies step by step and how to properly drill each strategy until I mastered it. Thanks to her help, my score improved nearly 200 points and I got accepted!”
