Dear Students and Parents,

Warm greetings from Copperstone Education!

As our Grade 12 students approach an important stage in their university admissions journey, we are delighted to share details of our upcoming SAT Preparation Programs, with new classes beginning November 5 and 6, 2026.

These cohorts are specifically designed for students preparing to sit the December 5, 2026 SAT, as well as those planning ahead for subsequent examination dates.

Why the December SAT Matters for High School Seniors

For students applying to universities in the United States and other institutions that consider SAT scores, the December examination represents an important strategic opportunity.

Many U.S. universities have Regular Decision application deadlines in early January. Sitting the SAT in December may allow students to strengthen their applications with updated scores before these deadlines, provided their chosen universities accept December results.

Importantly, December is the final SAT administration of 2026, with the next scheduled examination on March 6, 2027. For many graduating seniors, waiting until March may be too late for their preferred university application deadlines.

What Makes Copperstone Education Different?

Our SAT Preparation Programs combine exceptional instructors, a purpose-built curriculum, and advanced learning technology to provide students with a highly personalized preparation experience.

- Elite American-Educated Instructors: Our programs are led by highly accomplished American-educated educators who themselves scored within the top 1% of SAT test-takers, bringing both academic expertise and firsthand examination experience to their instruction.
- A Proprietary Curriculum for International Students: Unlike generic SAT preparation courses, our curriculum has been specifically developed to address the academic needs, learning experiences, and common challenges faced by students studying in international school environments.
- Advanced Adaptive Learning Technology: Students benefit from a sophisticated digital learning platform featuring realistic SAT-style questions, detailed answer explanations, targeted skills practice, performance analytics, and personalized recommendations that help identify and address learning gaps.
- Comprehensive Program Options: Students may enroll in our Full SAT Preparation Program, covering Mathematics, Reading, and Writing, or our SAT Math Intensive, designed for students who require focused support in Mathematics.
- Bespoke One-on-One SAT Preparation: For students seeking a more individualized experience, we offer private instruction tailored to their diagnostic results, target scores, academic strengths, and university aspirations.

DIRECTOR OF EXAM
PREPARATION

Dr. Jes'ka N.L. Washington is the founding MYP Principal and Deputy Head of School at Ntare Louisenlund International School, an IB MYP candidate Plus-STEM boarding school in Rwanda, and a doctoral candidate in Educational Leadership at Lamar University. As our Director of Exam Preparation she empowers students to achieve exceptional results on standardized examinations, combining official practice materials, data-driven instruction and measurable learning goals. She views exam preparation as a process of building lasting academic skills rather than simply raising test scores.

Maneeza Khan

SENIOR EXAM PREP
SPECIALIST

A scholar at Johns Hopkins University, Maneeza Khan achieved a perfect SAT score as a high school senior and has led Copperstone Education's SAT Preparation Program for the past three years. With expert-level mastery of the SAT and ACT, she has guided more than 50 students to scores between 1480 and 1600, with many earning admission to Ivy League and other top-ranked U.S. universities. She adapts her instruction to each learner, breaking complex concepts and test-taking strategies into clear, manageable steps, and also supports students in IB Mathematics, Chemistry and Biology.
